

Patrick Quigley, Attorney

As a pragmatic real estate attorney, Patrick focuses on crafting strategies and solutions designed to promote the best interests of his clients and move the transaction to closing.

He is a professional problem solver and is always ready to lend a hand, whether it's a developer in connection with a purchase of real property or a small business owner looking to expand their operations. He uses his extensive understanding of his client's goals, businesses, and industries to resolve challenges efficiently and help them achieve their business goals.

For over 20 years, Patrick has successfully represented clients in complex real estate matters in New York State and throughout the country. He negotiates, reviews, and drafts commercial purchase and sale agreements, leases, construction and mortgage loan documents, and other real estate-related agreements. Patrick helps develop investment strategies with clients and prepares necessary agreements such as private placement memorandum and operating agreements for various real estate investors.

*136 Everett Rd.
Albany, NY 12205
Tel. 518-431-1106*